

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION

5.1 Conclusion

Film is a unit of shot, scene, sequence, and film story which are related to each other are also related to one another until it becomes a complete story and becomes a spectacle for the audience crowded. Based on the results of the description from the previous chapter regarding protagonist analysis about Chucky, researchers in this chapter will describe conclusions and suggestions that can be used as material consideration for better things in the future.

It can be concluded that functions which contain a series of events and from these functions can be seen the nature of the character), and morals are elements of interrelated fairy tales. In a story, problems will arise from activities and behavior the characters. These activities will be strung together into events that have a causal relationship that will be involved in the plot. Thus the reader can know the character, attitude, way of thinking, personality, each character's relationship with other characters in social interactions. So that The reader will know the moral values contained in this collection of fairy tales through the attitudes and behavior of the characters in the story.

In the film Bride of Chucky that can be deduced from the observations that carried out in this research It can be seen the meaning content of the positive values contained in the scene. Researchers get conclusions that are actualized in language, scenes, pieces of dialogue to make it easier for researchers to conclude how the communication messages that have been delivered through Chucky's storytelling so that it is easy for everyone to understand viewer. So that the content of the protagonist value that the Chukya film wants to convey this has no difficulty in classifying it through film media. These three approaches are expected to be able to influence each individual viewers so that they can become a better person even though they have previously done evil and wrong. This animated film can be said to have protagonist elements, because in the scene always teaches the importance of family, apart from providing entertainment.

Making a film, it should be done properly systematically so that the desired and expected goals can be achieved. This action will greatly assist the production team in obtaining satisfactory results in a film. Production stage it is a production management to achieve a work film. Therefore, management in a film production is very important to be applied, studied, and researched. A management strategies and improvisation are indispensable in the pre- production, production and post-production. Based on the analysis that has been carried out by researchers on Bride of Chucky movie then researcher conclude as follows: In the pre-production stage, the process begins with the discovery of ideas story. The discovery of the story idea in this film was obtained suddenly after several times the director and producer visited the talent house who is also the grandmother of Prisma Aggrini as a producer. After it is continued into the idea development process. The development of ideas is carried out through a discussion process carried out between producers and producers director. In addition, research was also carried out by watching several film references that are considered suitable for the film to be produced.

After felt the story was mature enough, proceeded to the planning process. It is quite unique in film production because there is no budget, besides the pre-process production in this short film only takes one day. At the stage of production in this film also on implementation stage can be executed quite well. Treatment in the process of taking pictures is done with a documentary approach direct cinema, so fast movement is needed. In this stage communication between producer and director is very important. Apart from knowing that there is no shooting schedule, but this doesn't have much impact bad in the production of this film.
